The Wildest Baseball Trade of All Time

Tampa, Fla. (UPI) — Fritz Peterson said he would do it all over again.

The 31-year-old lefthanded pitcher for the New York Yankees was talking about the most astonishing "trade" in all baseball history, one in which he and fellow Yankee pitcher Mike Kekich swapped their wives, their younger children and even their pet dogs five months ago.

Peterson, in a personal telephone call from the Yankees' training base in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., revealed Monday he, Kekich and their respective wives agreed to the trade after due consideration. "There was nothing dirty about it," said Peterson. "This was not a wife swap, it was a life swap."

Under conditions of the agreement, Peterson's wife of 7½ years, Marilyn, went to live with Kekich last October and Kekich's wife of seven years, Susan, went to live with Peterson. Peterson's youngest son, Eric, 2, went with his mother, and Kekich's youngest daughter, Regen, also 2, stayed with her mother. Gregg, 5, Peterson's oldest son, remained with his father, and Kristen, 5, Kekich's oldest daughter, remained with her father.

"Susan and I are in love," said Peterson. "I miss my little boy, that's the bad part of it. I don't see too much of him."

Then asked if he would do such a thing again, Peterson said, "I would. This really makes my life complete."

"Some people are going to think it's a wife swap," Peterson added. "Mike and I agreed it was a life swap. Don't make this out to be cheap."

The Kekich alliance with Marilyn, however, isn't going so well. The 27-year-old Kekich admitted,

"Chip (Marilyn's nickname) and I thought we were perfectly suited but things developed and we began to butt heads," Kekich revealed in Fort Lauderdale. "Chip was all for it at the start but began to back off. I think her background began to overwhelm her. She would be the first in her family to get a divorce."

"We agreed that if anyone wasn't happy, it would be all off. Marilyn and I lived up to it but, when we elected to return to our original state, the other pair had gone. I am out in the cold—the only one who has nothing."

"After the season ended (last October), we moved in with our other families," Peterson said. "I moved to Franklin Lakes, N.J., and Mike to Mahwah, N.J."

Peterson, trying to explain how the situation had developed, said he and Kekich had been great friends since Kekich joined the Yankees in 1969.

"In the beginning, it was fun just being together, the four of us," said Peterson. "Then as things went along it became more serious. It all started last July 15. We were living in Franklin Lakes and Mike and Susan were living in Mahwah (a distance of about eight miles)."

"Mike started to campaign for my wife about in August. He talked to me seriously about it. He told his own wife, Susan, that he loved Marilyn more. That started it. There wasn't anything dirty about it, Marilyn didn't think he was serious at first. She thought it was funny at first, and so did I. Then we all discussed it seriously and we agreed."

Peterson added, "We both found we were unbelievably happy with the other. We each had found something we had been lacking. Divorces are now in progress."

kich's news conference, and a team spokesman said they had been aware of the situation for several weeks.

"The personal lives of the ballplayers are their own," said Houk. "My only concern is how it affects their pitching and the ballclub. I guess if people are unhappy together there is no sense in their struggling to stay together."

A Yankee spokesman said the players were asked if they preferred that one of them be traded.

"Neither of them indicated it would affect their feeling on the field or in the clubhouse," the spokesman said. "Mike said they could never be friends off the field as they once were, but both expressed a desire to remain with the Yankees."

"I've always been his best friend and I still consider myself that until he proves himself differently," Peterson said.

Defense Spokesmen Threaten on Aid

Future POW Release Set

SAIGON (UPI) — A Communist spokesman today said the future release of American prisoners should not be hampered by the deadlock over the exchange of South Vietnamese captives.

"They are two separate matters," said Col. Dang Van Thu, acting chief delegate of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) to the four-power Joint Military Commission (JMC).

But Thu warned that a "lack of serious attitude on the part of the South Vietnamese has posed a large obstacle for the entire matter of prisoner release (and) has caused the activities of the JMC to be completely deadlocked."

South Vietnam accused the Communists of a lack of goodwill on the POW issue and a spokesman said stalling tactics could make it difficult to complete the POW exchange by the March 28 deadline called for in the cease-fire agreement. Thu charged that the United States was not living up to the cease-fire agreement.

"We demand that the U.S. government carry out correctly the responsibility which they pledged in writing," Thu said in a statement.

Monday, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates walked out of a JMC meeting over the Vietnamese POW dispute and warned the argument could jeopardize the next U.S. POW release, set for about March 13.

In Washington Monday, the White House insisted the release of all American prisoners of war is tied to no other provision than withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam.

Thu said the Communists were prepared to release immediately another 1,200 South Vietnamese POWs as called for in the second phase of the exchange agreement. He said the government in turn would have to turn over 25 percent of the total number of 26,734 Communist prisoners it says it is holding.

Meanwhile, aiming a message toward both Hanoi and Capitol Hill, America's top two defense officials say "under no circumstances" will the United States provide reconstruction aid for North Vietnam unless the communists fully honor the cease-fire in Southeast Asia.

Only if the fighting stops can Pentagon budget funds be freed to help rebuild the North, say Defense Secretary Elliot Richardson and Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clements.

The two men, appearing in separate forums Monday with their identical messages, said post war reconstruction of North Vietnam could be an important "insurance policy" to preserve a stable peace, but they said the stable condition would have to emerge first.

Their statements appeared to have a twofold purpose—putting pressure on Hanoi to halt violations of the cease-fire, and countering widespread congressional opposition to President Nixon's reconstruction propo-

Guerrillas' Fate Remains Unclear

KHARTOUM (UPI) — Authorities did not react publicly today to a strong U.S. suggestion that Sudan convict and execute eight Black September guerrillas who murdered three diplomats, two of them American, during a 60-hour weekend siege at the Saudi Arabian embassy.

But President Jaafar Numeiry expressed "revulsion" at the deaths of the diplomats in a punishment. Moussa said it was logical to talk to a government spokesman about punishment since the promised an early trial of the government's investigation has eight men on murder charges, just started and the matter is

Vogt, Elwyn to Seek Reelection

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON District Attorney Francis J. Vogt has decided to seek another term in office instead of making a bid for Family Court Judge and the incumbent Judge Hugh R. Elwyn. Republican sources report, will be the party's choice for another term for the ten-year $31,500 post.

The GOP has set March 16 at 7 p.m. at the Walnut Grove for its unofficial county convention and has set March 14 for the date of its city convention to be held in the Ulster County Office Building.

Vogt's decision to seek reelection to the district attorney's post is thought to be due mainly to the fact that he finds his present position challenging and rewarding and he would like to continue the work he began when he first assumed the post three years ago.

Vogt was among a number of lawyers considering making a bid for the Family Court candidacy and it was thought that he could have received the nomination if he wanted it. With his withdrawal from consideration, the GOP apparently has decided to rally around the incumbent Judge Elwyn based on his 10 years of experience on the bench.

Since the dates of the conventions have been announced, various town and city committees throughout the county have been and are planning to meet this week and next, to select candidates with serious consideration being given to the possible candidacy of James Thompson, local radio advertising salesman, for mayor of the City of Kingston. Thompson, it is reported, will make his decision sometime this week. The name of Kingston realtor Howard Fox has also been mentioned.

It is expected that Treasurer Fred H. DuBois and Coroner Arthur Chipp will seek another term and are assured of the GOP nomination and all Republican county legislators with the exception of Eugene Corey (R-Dist. 9), who does not seek another term, are interested in nomination for reelection to their two-year posts.

Special

There is a question however as to whether Republican Legislator Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2) will receive the endorsement of the GOP committeemen in his newly reapportioned district of Ulster and the Town of Kingston.

Republican committeemen from the two towns will meet soon to select three candidates and are expected to nominate incumbent Lester C. Elmendorf and Richard D. Nace and one other. In addition to Dye, J. Watson Bailey School principal Stephen Hyatt is under serious consideration and Stephen Conti of Conti Explosives reportedly has expressed interest in the nomination.

Previously Dye, a former member of the old Board of Supervisors and former majority leader had to enter two primaries to retain his candidacy for reelection.

It has also been reported that former County Legislator Joseph Martorana of Plattekill is interested in being a candidate for the legislature once again. Martorana, running as an independent, made an unsuccessful bid for the State Senate last year. Under reapportionment he would be seeking office in a district including Plattekill with seven representatives.

Eight judicial delegates and eight alternates will also be chosen at the county convention from the 101st Assembly District and two delegates and two alternates from the 99th Assembly District will be named.

City GOP Chairman Frank Fabbie said that the committeemen will select candidates for the Common Council based on the present 13-wad basis because to date no official action has been taken to reapportion the City of Kingston.

The two conventions were called following the county's recent vote on reapportionment which will reduce the 12-district 33-member Legislature to eight districts and to meet the June 4 statewide Primary date.

County GOP Chairman Albert Spada told The Freeman this week that he anticipates a unified and harmonious convention.

The makeup of the districts under the one-man, one-vote concept is as follows: District One — Saugerties, four legislators; District Two—Town of Ulster and Town of Kingston, three legislators; District Three — City of Kingston six legislators; District Four — Woodstock, Shandaken, Denning and Hardenburgh, two legislators; District Five — Olive, Hurley, Marlinton and Rochester, four legislators; District Six — Esopus and Rosendale, three legislators; District Seven — Wawarsing and Shawangunk, four legislators and District Eight — New Paltz, Gardiner, Plattekill, Lloyd and Marlboro, seven legislators.

With that old adage in mind, spring-conscious residents can only hope the second half of the proverb, "out like a lion," proves to be humbug. ## Japan Getting U.S. Missile System

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO said today it had learned that an American firm, with the government's approval, was "exporting" to Japan a missile system that easily could be modified into an offensive intercontinental missile.

A spokesman for the labor federation identified the firm as the McDonald-Douglas Corp. and the missile system as the Thor-Delta rocket, used up to now for launching satellites.

"Japanese engineers are currently at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California being trained in the development and use of the system," Andrew J. Biemiller, chief AFL-CIO lobbyist, said in testimony prepared for the Senate subcommittee on international trade.

"A prototype rocket is being built in nearby Santa Monica," Biemiller said, and "it is expected that upon completion, the system will be set up on an island west of Japan."

"A Thor-Delta system is capable of carrying several hundred pound objects into space orbit or, with little modification, can carry a nuclear warhead in the 1,500 mile range, clearly a potentially offensive weapon," he said.

The former Wisconsin congressman said that after the Japanese had failed in efforts to develop their own missile system "initiative for the Japan-developed prototype in order to McDonald-Douglas deal was developed at a 1971 meeting in Tokyo between U.S. cabinet officers and their Japanese counterparts."

"That meeting in effect ratified the negotiations that had been underway for the missile system sale," he said. "Part of the deal was an agreement by Japan to permit investment by U.S. multinational firms in its automotive industry."

Biemiller did not reveal where his information came from but indicated that the Japanese would copy the U.S.-developed prototype in order to build later units and models on developed at their own. He said the Thor-Delta rocket previously had also been used to launch weather and other satellites for Canada, France, and jointly for seven European nations.

Golda Meir: 'Peace Must Come'

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Premier Golda Meir said Monday night that peace "must come and will come" between Israel and her Arab neighbors. "The sooner the better for all of us."

"We again offer our hand in real peace and real friendship despite all that has happened," Mrs. Meir said, adding that she hoped "our neighbors will realize they are destroying not Israel but themselves."

The Arab states "hope they can throw us out of the area" she told an audience of more than 3,000 at a United Jewish Appeal Dinner. "But they don't believe it."

She said that in the 25 years and three wars of Israel's history, "the Jewish people, who for generations could only weep, pray and believe, threw back the attackers."

In urging the audience to support the UJA campaign, which its chairman businessman said already had $151 million in pledges, she recalled a fund-raising trip she made to the U.S. in 1948.

"Because you people went along with us we are here tonight," she said. "We are celebrating the 25th anniversary of a free, independent, sovereign Jewish state."

Before her arrival, about 100 demonstrators marched outside the dinner site, the New York Hilton Hotel, chanting "Stop Israeli terror" and "No more Vietnam; no more arms for Israel."

The demonstrators, organized by a variety of left wing groups, dispersed without incident after about an hour.

The dinner was the conclusion of a busy day—long round of talks for the Israeli head of state with politicians, Jewish leaders and news executives.

Typhoid Quarantine at Fla. Migrant Camp

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — With 30 typhoid cases confirmed and another 70 suspected cases hospitalized, Dade County health officials said Monday they hope a partial quarantine of a migrant farm labor camp will stop the spread of what they call the nation's worst typhoid epidemic in 10 years.

But while health officials were optimistic that the worst might be over, the leader of a migrant group said more people at the South Dade Labor Camp appeared to be coming down with the disease. Financial hardships caused by the illness were becoming serious, he added.

"Most of the people here are unable to pick up food stamps. Because they missed work, they don't have money to buy them," said Rudy Juarez, a leader of Organized Migrants in Community Action. "Some people don't have any money for rent. In some houses, both the father and mother are in the hospital and there's no one to take care of the children."

"A lot of the people are afraid," Juarez added. "In the first two days, we didn't have adequate medical facilities. The doctors and nurses who were here worked as hard as they could, but people had to standing in line three to four hours for treatment."

A special conference of the Trades Union Congress (TUC), the equivalent of the AFL-CIO, "invited" 10 million members Monday to take part in a day of national protest and strikes against a government freeze on pay increases and against increases in food prices.

But the resolution, approved by militants over the opposition of most of the TUC leadership in the final minutes of the conference, left delegates arguing over its meaning and no date set for the action.

Militants said the resolution called for a general strike, the first in Britain since 1926, while moderates left it up to each union whether to strike or not—and for how long.

The general strike threat loomed as walkouts by more than 220,000 non-medical workers disrupted 900 hospitals, striking gas workers reduced pressure to 4.3 million homes

"Some families got mad and left the camp, but we got them all back. It looks like we're getting more cases today. People who weren't sick before are coming in sick now."

Dr. Milton Saslaw, public health director for Dade County, said he "wouldn't be surprised" if the total number of typhoid cases reaches more than 100 before the epidemic runs its course. But Saslaw said he had hoped the disease, apparently caused by contaminated water sources at the camp, would not reduce the chance the disease spread to nearby communities.

Nationwide Strike Threatens Britian

LONDON (UPI) — The threat of first nationwide strike in nearly 50 years added today to labor problems already aggravated by disruptive hospital, railroad and gas walkouts.

'Lollipop Patrols' Continue in Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — The army said today it will continue its "lollipop patrols" to guard Belfast school children despite attacks that have killed one soldier and wounded three others in three weeks.

The latest "lollipop patrol" casualty was a soldier shot in the side Monday by a sniper. "Our job here is to protect children," said Capt. Robin Garratt, whose unit guards the children as they go to and from school near a Roman Catholic area that has been the scene of several bloody incidents.

"Obviously this makes us an easy target for the cowardly IRA (the Irish Republican Army)."

"Lollipop patrols" started five months ago when mobs throwing rocks seriously injured many Protestant and Catholic children on their way home from school.

In another announcement, the army said Monday that troops had captured one of the most wanted IRA commanders, chiefly because of the alertness of a British officer on his way home to England after two years' duty in Northern Ireland.

The officer recognized the IRA suspect as he drove through the market town of Dungiven and alerted an army patrol. It captured the man, described as an IRA commander in Londonderry.

The extremist Provisional wing of the IRA claimed responsibility Monday night for the death of Pvt. Gary Barlow, 19, who was beaten and shot Sunday in a Catholic district of Belfast.

Barlow was left behind when his patrol retreated after a clash with a crowd of women, the army said.

In another incident of violence, police said persons in a crowded Catholic bingo hall in Belfast narrowly escaped Monday night when gunmen planted a barrel packed with explosives outside and lit the fuse. But only two of the estimated 20 pounds of explosives detonated and no one was hurt.

Watergate Memo Released, Gray Resumes Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — L. Patrick Gray III, who has released an FBI memo saying President Nixon's campaign committee did not cooperate in the Watergate investigation, resumes testimony today before a Senate panel weighing his nomination to be FBI director.

The 12-page memo, dated July 21, 1972, and made public Monday, was among documents and material submitted by Gray, acting FBI director, to the Senate Judiciary Committee last week.

Democratic senators last week queried Gray on his investigation of the bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex last year.

Gray acknowledged then that he had turned over the FBI's extensive investigative record on the bugging of the Watergate complex to presidential counsel John W. Dean III.

Dean was heading a White House probe of the Watergate affair.

The FBI memo made public Monday covered its first month of inquiry and quoted an unidentified source from within the Committee for the Re-election of the President as telling agents: "Committee officials during interviews (with federal investigators) were sending FBI agents on fishing expeditions to keep them from getting the truth."

The officials were not named in the document. The source was listed as a committee official who "requested to be . . . interviewed away from committee headquarters and without knowledge of committee officials."

The FBI memo also said several of those interviewed by the FBI subsequently "advised that the presence of the attorney (for the campaign committee) during the interview prevented them from being completely candid."

Cites Crime, Violence on Streets

Rocky Seeks Labor Support in State Drug War

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Rockefeller, far from showing any sign of bending to criticism of his stiff anti-drug plan, indicates he is willing to make it even tougher by adding the death penalty for narcotic dealers within organized crime.

The possibility came to light Monday while Rockefeller was outlining his proposal to the state AFL-CIO annual legislative meeting.

"I'd like to say very frankly that I'm giving very serious consideration to adding to my recommendation the death penalty for organized criminals supplying hard drugs," Rockefeller told the labor leaders.

The applause was enthusiastic and Rockefeller added that "we're thinking alike on this... and I'm going to stay with you on this... because I don't think we've got any other issue which is more important to the future of our kids."

He noted there were criticisms of the plan, and that some persons were calling it too harsh. He agreed they were "tough — tough on pushers."

In asking labor's support, Rockefeller cited crime in the streets and said the state's residents were "terrified" by the violence attributed to drugs.

Although he said he was considering the death penalty clause, Rockefeller conceded that perhaps his proposals would not survive intact in the legislature, adding that he expected there would be efforts at compromise.

The delegates to the labor group's meeting were generally cordial to the governor as he briefly outlined the top issues facing the state, but were almost glumly silent when he mentioned proposals to change governmental employee pensions.

Labor in general, and especially unions representing state and local government workers, have been outspoken in their opposition to proposed changes in pension provisions.

Rockefeller said the state had to look at "realities" in attempting to deal with pension problems, and said he was "sure something can be worked out to the best interest of all."

In other topics, the governor said:

—The recently approved No-Fault Auto Liability Insurance Law did not go as far as he liked, but he said it was an "important first step." He predicted it would result in removing 75 per cent of the liability cases from the court calendars.

—He praised the welfare inspector general, and renewed his drive to obtain similar posts for the state education department and perhaps the court system.

—He said he hoped the federal government would bring its minimum wage law up in the near future to $2 or $2.20 an hour to help the state maintain its competitive edge with other, less liberal states in providing minimum wage protection.

—He said his proposed 68.9 billion budget was carefully balanced and did not contain any secret funds or hidden surpluses. He derided charges that the budget contained a $700 million to $900 million surplus, and said the state was using the money to pay off debts.

Rockefeller's proposals on drugs include life sentences without parole for hard drug pushers and addicts who commit crimes while under the influence of drugs. They also call for 15-year minimum sentences for youthful drug pushers.

First Look at Adirondack Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state legislature was expected to receive its first look today at the final master plan for private land use in the Adirondack Park (APA).

A State Supreme Court justice Monday declined to continue a restraining order aimed at halting the submission of the report by the Adirondack Park Agency.

A spokesman for a group of North Country communities which had requested the order said Justice Harold R. Soden's decision would be appealed.

Soden's decision clears the way for the APA to present its plan to Governor Rockefeller and the legislature.

Assemblyman Glenn H. Harris, R-Canada Lake, who has been leading the fight within the legislature to table action on the report for at least one year, said he was "surprised" by the court decision. "I felt they (the opponents) had good solid ground for their case."

The communities, led by Essex County town of Keene Supervisor Robert Purdy, contended that the agency failed to consult with the localities in the area in drawing up the plan.

Harris declined to offer a response to the State Supreme Court ruling because "they went through the judicial process rather than the legislative, and it is not my place to comment on that."

The agency's master plan is expected to reach the floor of the Assembly later this week, and will likely spark lengthy debate there.

A group of Republican lawmakers, headed by Harris, the Assembly whip, claims additional time is needed to examine the situation. They charge that the plan will have a "substantial and adverse" effect on the 3.7 million acres of privately owned land within the 6 million acres of the Adirondacks.

Governor Rockefeller has come out strongly in favor of the zoning plan, and has criticized the attempts to stall on the issue, saying "the longer we wait, the more difficult it is for the people who are there."

Photographs By Satellite May Bring Pollution Lawsuit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tell-tale imagery recorded by a satellite 560 miles above the earth may be used in a lawsuit against a paper mill accused of dumping waste into Lake Champlain, space scientists say.

The photographs taken by the Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS-1) clearly show pollution from a paper mill on the New York side of the lake.

scientist A.O. Lind said Monday.

He said Vermont is seeking an order to prevent further pollution. The satellite photographs of the pollution plume in the lake have been turned over to Vermont's attorney general for possible introduction into the lawsuit now under way, Lind said.

The pictures and data, as described at the opening of a four-day National Aeronautics and Space Administration symposium in suburban New Carrollton, Md., also showed that:

—The railroad track that arrows through Utah's Great Salt Lake, in effect, has divided that lake into two bodies of water, with the area to the north showing up red in satellite imagery, and that to the south blue. The satellite results indicated that additional culverts should be cut through the rail bed to provide circulation and prevent further deterioration of the lake's mineral resources and brine shrimp.

Lawyer Wants Reynolds, Miss Miles to Testify Under Oath

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — A Miles' maid from testifying at lawyer representing the family an inquest be overturned.

Lawyers for the film stars Sarah Miles' motel room asked got the earlier ruling on the Monday that Miss Miles and grounds the inquest would make a "spectacle" of them.

actor Burt Reynolds be forced to testify under oath "in the public gaze, just like anybody else in the same situation."

Attorney John P. Frank filed the petition in Maricopa County Superior Court, asking that an earlier court order protecting clothed or unclothed, bask in the public eye," Frank said. He apparently referred to Reynolds' celebrated nude appearance in the centerfold of Cosmopolitan magazine. Miss Miles has appeared nude in film roles.

Authorities say Whiting, Miss Miles' manager who was found dead Feb. 11 in the bathroom of Miss Miles' motel room in Gila Bend, Ariz., died of an overdose of sleeping pills. Miss Miles leaving him in a dazed condition, which contributed to left and went to Reynolds' room his taking of the fatal drugs," Frank said. "Other and grimmer speculations could be presented, were it not for the fear of sensationalism."

Frank also said that Reynolds had lost a pill bottle involved in the case.

Authorities said Whiting had a scalp wound, and blood from it was found in several motel rooms. The wound was "consistent with a fall onto a flat surface," authorities said.

Miss Miles has said Whiting beat her up when she returned to her motel room at 3 a.m. after a birthday party for Reynolds given by the cast of "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing," the movie they are making in southern Arizona.

She said she spent the rest of the night in Reynolds' room and found Whiting's body when she returned to her room the next morning.

Legislature Committee Making Plans

County Office for Aging Is Under Consideration

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON

Formation of an Ulster County Office of the Aging is presently under consideration by the Program for Aging Committee of the Ulster County Legislature.

According to Raymond Armater, chairman of the Committee, the formation of the department is being considered for a number of reasons, not the least of which is the possibility that more Federal and State funds will be made available to the county.

Still in the early stages of planning and discussion, the concept of such an office is already meeting with some opposition from the Ulster County Senior Citizens Alliance, Inc., which represents 26 senior citizen organizations throughout the county.

Mrs. Antoinette Tennant, Alliance chairman, said the organization is opposed to an office with a large or expensive staff. "Senior citizens can do many things," Mrs. Tennant told The Freeman. "We don't need to be herded around by an office of the Aging."

Under the present organization the Ulster County Legislature budgets $5,730 for the aging, and the same sum is received from the state in a matching fund. The $11,460 total is turned over to the Alliance which utilizes it for educational and recreational purposes only, as required. The money is distributed voluntarily.

"I know the people in the Alliance see to be concerned that if the Office of the Aging is set up it might reduce or cut down on their activities," Armater said. "But this would not be the case. They would continue to operate as they do now."

"What we want to do is develop a means of reaching as many senior citizens as possible," Armater told The Freeman. "We are trying to offer a greater range of services to them."

"At present the Alliance handles all money on a no cost basis," he said. "We are hoping that they would continue to handle that portion (for recreation and education) in just the same manner."

According to Armater, there is no intent to form a large expensive staff if the office is set up.

One idea under consideration by his committee is to have the program run by persons who are already employed by the county. Another thought is to have a senior citizen administer the office. "He would relate to senior citizens and be aware of their problems," Armater said.

"We do not want the money received for senior citizen programs to be siphoned off in bureaucratic salaries," said Armater.

Another reason why an Office of the Aging is being considered is that the federal Office of Economic Opportunity is being phased out, and with it will go some senior citizen programs, according to Armater. He added that there are indications that the funds will be made available under other programs and the an Office of the Aging would "fill the void" created by the demise of OEO.

Although no dollar figure has yet been placed on additional funds that might be available to the county, Armater said that it is felt that the county will receive more than the present $5,730 matching fund it gets from the state.

"We will be assessing the amount of support the proposal has," Armater said. "We don't want it to become a political football. We don't think the elderly should be used like that."

According to Armater, it is expected that the proposal will be brought before the Legislature "in another month or two."

WASHINGTON — The cloak-and-dagger boys at the Central Intelligence Agency are trying to get an advance copy of a book which is highly critical of the CIA's "dirty tricks department."

The author, ex-Air Force Col. L. Fletcher Prouty, was the Pentagon support officer for the CIA over a nine-year period. He did everything from supplying them with James Bond weapons to shipping three dozen lobsters to a CIA bigwig. And he has written a book about it, "The Secret Team."

To get the unedited galley, the CIA library approached the distinguished Sidney Kramer bookstore only a few blocks from the White House. A representative of the bookstore immediately called Prouty and suggested he could "help the sale" of the book by providing a copy of the galley.

But Prouty had been in intelligence too long to be an easy touch. He agreed to meet with the Kramer representative and then secretly recorded their conversation.

Here is a partial transcript: "Do you represent others?" asked Prouty.

"I can tell you who wants this," confided the emissary. "They're on our backs — the CIA."

"They are?"

"Evidently someone was going to present them with a copy the day before yesterday," said the representative, but the deal fell through.

Prouty refused to turn over the galley to the CIA, which had a messenger waiting for him at the bookstore. We can provide the CIA, however, with some of the highlights:

— The CIA, Prouty charges, trained agents in the Maine woods because of the similarity to the Russian fir forests. Then it flew them to Norway where they were hopped into Russia on a light pontooned plane which landed on a hidden lake.

— The CIA skillfully managed to keep out of the Pentagon Papers almost all mention of its assassination and other "dirty tricks" operations in South Vietnam, alleges Prouty. Instead, the CIA larded the Papers with examples of how good its intelligence proved to be.

— In 1959, one of CIA chief Allen Dulles' spy planes allegedly was shot down over Russia. The crew was captured, questioned by Soviet intelligence and later quietly returned to the United States. (They were debriefed after their return, by, among others, James McCord, a former CIA man convicted in the Watergate scandal.)

— Even though the late President Kennedy ordered the Joint Chiefs to keep a tight rein on covert CIA military operations after the Bay of Pigs debacle, the CIA circumvented the order in Vietnam and the Pentagon supinely let them get away with it, says Prouty.

Footnote: In an earlier incident, the CIA went to court to block a book by one of its former employees, Victor Marchetti. But Prouty was never on the CIA payroll. When we asked the CIA whether an attempt would be made to suppress Prouty's book, a spokesman said: "There are no plans whatsoever to do anything about the book."

Headlines and Footnotes

Wistful Wallace — We reported last July 19 that Alabama's Gov. George Wallace didn't consider his confinement to a wheelchair as an obstacle to his presidential ambitions but rather looked upon himself as a poor man's Franklin D. Roosevelt. He pointed out to subordinates that FDR had run four presidential campaigns from a wheelchair. But the wheelchair has slowed Wallace down and has raised doubts among his supporters that he remains a creditable candidate. As a result, the campaign cash has stopped flowing in. In 1968, Wallace raised a staggering $9 million in $1, $5 and $10 bills. After he wound up in a wheelchair, however, he collected less than $2 million in 1972. He now desperately needs money to pay old campaign bills and to fuel his future political campaigns. He plans therefore, to send solicitation letters to everyone on his mailing lists and to make personal calls to his big financial backers. He wants to fill his campaign chest with enough money to run for governor again in 1974 and for president in 1976.

Tax Dodge Award — Out of his exhaustive research on tax inequities, ex-Sen. Fred Harris has agreed to select for us a tax avoider of the week. This week's award goes to the Aluminum Company of America. In 1971, Alcoa paid a penny on profits of $50,199,000. Harris charges, other corporations paid a corporate tax of 48 per cent. Alcoa was able to get away with this gigantic tax dodge because of the mineral depletion allowance, which permits mining interests to avoid most of their income tax. The rest of the taxpayers, of course, must make up what Alcoa was excused from paying. Harris' Tax Action Campaign plans to picket and pamphlet the major tax avoiders every week up to Income Tax Day on April 16.

Foolish Films — The White House, through its Office of Management and Budget, has issued a memo directing government agencies to stop making so many foolish films and tapes. The instructions went out after Rep. Barry Goldwater, Jr., R-Calif., discovered that the government was wasting millions on dubious audio-visual productions. He found that the Pentagon, for instance, has produced 12 separate films on how to brush your teeth.

China Trade Sought

In 1949 and 1950, after the Communists took power in China, they seized private American-owned assets and American interests claimed these amounted to a total of $196-million. In 1950, during the Korean war, the United States blocked $78-million in Chinese assets.

The first matter of business which Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei took up shortly after their arrival in Paris for a meeting of the International Conference on Vietnam, was to discuss the settlement of these claims against each other's nationals.

The promptness with which Rogers and Chi began carry out one of the key agreements of Henry A. Kissinger's recent trip to Peking underscored a desire by both nations to move quickly on improving relations in the wake of the Vietnam cease-fire.

More to the point, once claims are settled, China would be eligible to receive United States Government backed credits and regular tariffs. They are essential for increased trade with China.

At the same time, Rogers was keeping United States relations with the Soviet Union open. He telephoned Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for a private meeting later in the week. This conference hoped to assuage any Soviet concern that may have arisen over Kissinger's visit and the decision by Washington and Peking to exchange "liaison officers" in each other's capital.

Rogers and Gromyko had a broad range of issues to discuss on their own, especially, at this time, the Middle East. Washington and Moscow have focused special attention on this area since the Vietnam settlement. Both have indicated a desire to see peace between the Arabs and Israelis. Should they agree on a superpower guarantee of peace in the Middle East, it would go a long way toward lulling the suspicions between the antagonists.

Reclamation of Cities

American cities are increasingly providing centerpieces for their attempts to resurrect their dying or deceased centers. Carefully planned inner city developments provide such models as Philadelphia's Society Hill and Independence Mall; Pittsburgh's Market Square and Gateway Center; Atlanta's shopping and entertainment arcades over its railways; Minneapolis' pedestrian mall and apartment towers replacing its Skid Row; and Denver's Skyline project, more than a third completed.

In these and other instances, the original impetus for reclamation came from federal urban renewal funds, supplemented by bond issues which finished the job. The goal was to recapture downtown and bring back some of the people who deserted it for the suburbs. They are coming back to live in beautiful modern new apartments, while others are coming back to play in the evenings in streets that have suddenly become safe because of the feeling of safety engendered by growing numbers.

Not that the suburbs are being deserted. They are growing, too, along with the shopping centers that brought stores and entertainment. What is happening is that the center cities are slowly regaining their livelihood. The trend is spreading. Beside those named above, medium-sized cities like Oklahoma City, New Haven, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit have begun to turn their wastelands into light after dark night. The reclamation of the cities is one the most exciting and promising developments in America.

NEW AMBASSADOR TO INDIA —

India says it wants better relations with the United States. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, our new ambassador there, is going to have to see real evidence of this statement. India has long cozied with the Soviet Union, frequently expresses anti-U. S. attitudes, and is scornful of the massive aid this country has given them. Moynihan's brilliance and humor will be well used there.

MUSKIE'S NEW GO—Dropping his despairing, sad look, Senator Edmund S. Muskie now brightly opines that Congressional funding could stimulate industry to produce the machinery for a better, cleaner environment; and could likewise stimulate space industries to produce to capacity. It's a new look for the former presidential candidate from Maine.

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

There are mixed feelings, to say the least, concerning the proposed economic aid to North Vietnam by the United States. Hanoi loosely calls it "reparations," thereby giving aid and comfort to those in this country, who, viewing it as such, are opposed to it. Reparations after all signify one of two things: either the acceptance of a moral debt; or, in the absence of a morally completed formula, the acceptance of defeat. A country can pay reparations — as it is universally hoped Israel will do to Libya, in the case of the destroyed airliner, no final military point having been proven. France, after 1870, paid over huge reparations to the Kaiser's Germany in simple recognition of France having lost the war.

Those in America who are sensitive to the implications of our paying reparations are quite rightly sensitive to the symbolic meaning that might be inferred by the transfer of money to North Vietnam. We do not by any means concede any moral obligation to North Vietnam and we do not by any means concede a military defeat by North Vietnam.

So what is the meaning of a proposed economic aid to North Vietnam? In a curious way, it would have been easier to swallow having decisively beaten North Vietnam. Under such circumstances it might have been accepted as work-a-day charity by the victor for the vanquished such as was shown by the U.S. a generation ago towards Germany, Italy, and Japan.

But we find ourselves now in the equivocal position: we are a power neither humiliated morally, nor defeated by the enemy. Nor vanquisher of the enemy and yet, they talk routinely about giving North Vietnam $2 or $3 billion, a huge per capita outlay, and huge in its potential implications. There are those whose opposition is based primarily on the deteriorated balance of payments — we cannot, they thunder, increase our economic debt abroad. This argument, though statistically useful, is defecated, and will not carry the weight of the argument in a controversy in which passions are the primary tender. Those who favor aid to North Vietnam have got to make the point that we are investing via that aid in a stability which is otherwise far less easy to attain, and here is where a little Yankee ingenuity is in order.

There must be a dozen and a half ways of infusing money into North Vietnam of a sort that will not assist it in re-mounting its war of aggression.

Obviously the $2 billion in aid should be channelled towards the construction of facilities in North Vietnam which are proof-vulnerable in the event of North Vietnamese treachery. For instance, vast new facilities for Haiphong Harbor combined with a pledge not to put anti-aircraft installations within X number of miles of such installations: this is merely suggestive.

And above all, we should call on China and the Soviet Union to contribute equally not only in North Vietnam but in South Vietnam. Granted the likelihood of success particularly in South Vietnam is slight, still, the cogency of the suggestion could very well put the Russian and the Chinese aggressors on a significant defensive, and that is worth a very great deal. We should not let the subject go in the United Nations. We should keep it alive through speeches by our diplomats around the world, at meetings of the World Bank — everywhere.

Finally, on the moral problem: ought one to help restore the economy of an aggressive nation, my feeling is that the pragmatic point is the principal one in make: Do we advance the cause of peace and stability by doing so? The business of making fine entries in the moral ledger is a very important thing to do — one which should occupy and preoccupy our philosophers. But at best the dialectic between the moral and the practical is vaguely harmonious, and in the current situation, we must proceed with stark reference to the real objective.

The Troubled Shade of Petain

By MARTIN F. NOLAN

WASHINGTON — He talked of "peace with honor" and denounced those who did not praise him for achieving it. He denounced permissiveness and paid little heed to those who complained of his monarchical tendencies.

Withdrawal symptoms over Vietnam have divided this American Republic, with questions of amnesty and national honor still ulcerating the open wounds of this war.

But the events of 1940 ended the Third Republic of France, following the principals of that war to the grave and beyond. Even last week, once-noble bones could find no rest.

We, Philippe Petain, Marshal of France, assume the functions of the Chief of State of France, and hereby decree... "the old man said, his voice never wavering. France was falling before the blitzkrieg and Petain set out to save her."

The hero of the Battle of Verdun in 1918 became a household word in France when he declared "they shall not pass." The Germans did not. One war later and after billions of francs had been spent on the Maginot Line, under the Marshal's approving gaze, the Germans had their revenge.

"Defeat," said Petain, "was caused by our moral laxness and our pleasure-seeking."

The oddest political rupture in modern history then took place between Petain and his protege, Charles deGaulle, a brigadier general who had fled to London, literally alone as the representative of a non-collaborating French state.

DeGaulle studied under Petain, fought under him in World War I, served on his staff, named his only son after the Marshal, and revered him, as did most Frenchmen.

As deGaulle rallied the Free French overseas, he denounced the Vichy government and the man who headed it. Petain, he told French exiles, was "an old man of 84, a pitiful shell of past glories, raised to power to endorse the capitulation and dupe the stunned nation."

Petain was tried for treason after the war and convicted, but made no defense. "On the most tragic day in her history, France turned to me once again," he said. "I asked for nothing, but they begged me to come and I came. The guilty men hid behind my back to shield them from the anger of the people. History will tell you all I have spared you."

DeGaulle, like most politicians, wavered in 1948 on whether the Marshal should be freed from his prison. He was even quoted as saying that during the war, "Petain was the shield, and deGaulle was the sword."

Petain died at 96 in his prison on the Ile d'Yeu on July 23, 1951. His wish to be buried at Verdun was ignored by the government and he was buried instead on the cold Atlantic island where he died.

Two decades, two Republics and hundreds of fading memories of Vichy and the Resistance later, followers of Petain attempted to rebury his remains. The bizarre episode ended in a Paris garage last week when the police found the coffin, then shipped it back to the Ile d'Yeu.

A wreath accompanied the reburial sent by President Pompidou, even though the Petainists represent an "insignificant" minority in government propaganda. "Peace with honor" — was it worth it? The crosscurrents, the passions of that time, were far more intense than today's. But for the troubled shade of Marshal Petain, a question worth asking.

FISH: Food Price Control Bill

WASHINGTON Terming skyrocketing food prices the "single greatest economic threat faced by the average family," Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr. today reintroduced legislation to control food prices.

"I am greatly disturbed by

Department of Labor statistics showing a monthly food price rise of 5.7 per cent a rate of 68.4 per cent on an annual basis," Congressman Fish said. "These food prices have continued to increase faster than other goods and services because the Cost of Living

Council has exempted raw agricultural products, which includes most meats, from price controls. "My bill would require the Cost of Living Council to impose price controls on all food products with no exceptions," Congressman Fish added.

The legislation proposed by Congressman Fish today is similar to a bill he introduced last year, when it was becoming clear that food prices were moving rapidly out of control. In a related effort to bring down the cost of food, the Dutchess County Congressman also co-sponsored legislation to abolish the 75 cent per bushel tax on wheat used for food. "This regressive tax adds up to about 2 cents per pound loaf of bread," Congressman Fish said, "and the abolition of this bread tax would reduce the cost of what is virtually the staff of life, particularly to poorer citizens."

Ironically, the wheat tax applies only on wheat for food, and not on wheat for feed. Under the program, pigs and poultry get a better tax break than poor people," Congressman Fish said.

Congressman Fish pointed out that last year the wheat tax amounted to over 50 per cent of the market value of wheat. "Of all Federal excise taxes, I know of none more regressive than the wheat tax, and I know of none that even approaches 50 per cent of the commodity value," Congressman Fish said. "I also know of no other tax so squarely aimed at those least able to pay, and the quicker we abandon the unjust taxation, the better it will be both for the consumer and the farmer," Congressman Fish added.

MASON: Law Enforcement

ALBANY State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) has introduced three bills proposed by the New York State Association of Police Chiefs. In urging their adoption by the Legislature Mason said, "I am pleased to join with the people who are in the front ranks of law enforcement in seeking ways to combat the explosion of the crime rate that we see in our streets, and schools, and even our homes."

One bill permits statewide enforcement of a warrant instead of the present requirement of having warrants addressed to a particular department or police officer. This would eliminate unnecessary delays in detaining criminals and provide more effective law enforcement. The second provides for the extension of juvenile delinquent status to persons under 16 who commit crimes. Under the present law, persons under 16 who commit acts such as disorderly conduct, vandalism and who leave home or refuse to obey their parents, or trespass are not responsible for their acts. This bill would give jurisdiction to the Family Court to deal with such offenders. The third Police Chiefs' bill would protect the citizen by making it possible for the police to extend station house bail in cases where a magistrate is unavailable. This would eliminate the present deprivation of bail in minor traffic cases when a magistrate is the only one who can admit bail. "These bills do much to free the hands of our law enforcement officials who need these changes not only to protect society from these individuals who commit crimes, but also to protect law-abiding citizens from unnecessary breakdowns in the judicial system because of trivial and absurd technicalities," Mason added. "The police chiefs are acutely aware of the day-to-day problems of dealing with lawbreakers and as such are entitled to great respect from the rest of society for their expertise and their contribution in the preservation of law and order. The legislature needs to have the benefit of their practical viewpoint about solutions to our ever-mounting crime problem. It is especially refreshing when compared to the abstract philosophizing and sociological platitudes of some of our judges and academic people who would have as pamper, coddle, and reward criminals for their behavior instead of punishing and putting them out of circulation."

to be added to the time of residence to be added to the time of ownership of their new residence. "As the law now stands," he said, "these people cannot take advantage of the many years of home ownership in their former area and must start anew before they are able to achieve the relief available under the Real Property Tax Law. ## BETROS: Senior Citizen Tax Aid

ALBANY New York State senior citizens will no longer lose their eligibility for real property tax relief when they sell their home and purchase another if a bill sponsored by Assemblyman Emuel S. Betros (R-99th Dist.) and State Sen. Jay P. Rolison (R-39th Dist.) is passed into law.

Under present law, a person over 65 years of age may not tuck on the years of prior ownership of his former home to the ownership of his new home for the purpose of applying for real property tax relief if he changes his assessment unit. "My bill will see to it that our senior citizens are not penalized for selling the home they have lived in for a good part of their lives to move into another one," declared Betros. "With the high cost of living many persons on a fixed income cannot afford the home they had to use the time in which they take advantage of the tacking greater. Often they must move into more economical homes where real property taxes are lower. "As the law now stands," he said, "these people cannot take advantage of the many years of home ownership in their former area and must start anew before they are able to achieve the relief available under the Real Property Tax Law. ## 44,000 Pizzas Are Buried ALPENA, Mich. (AP) — When Mario Fabbrini had to bury more than 44,000 mushroom pizzas, even the governor turned out for the funeral. But someone apparently made a big mistake.

The federal government ordered the frozen pizzas from Fabbrini Family Foods destroyed two weeks ago because the mushrooms, from American Canning Co. of East Palestine, Ohio, were believed tainted with botulism toxin.

Fabbrini called the pizzas back from stores in northern Lower Michigan when two test mice died after eating samples of the pizza. It was discovered later that the mice didn't die of botulism.

"I think it was indigestion. Maybe they didn't like my pizza," said Fabbrini.

By then the pizzas had been collected, and they were buried Monday on a farm here. At the burial were Fabbrini's 22 employees, several newsmen and Gov. William G. Milliken, who spoke.

Fabbrini placed a wreath of red gladioli and white carnations on the grave of the pizzas, which he valued at $39,000.

It was announced that a hearing on the installation of a stop sign at the intersection of Park Avenue and old Route 9 will be scheduled.

The village has been notified that the state audit of its books for 1972 has been completed, and the results will be announced in several weeks.

Monday's meeting marked the last for one-term Mayor Robert Bowman, who announced he will not seek reelection this year. Village elections are March 20.

'Camera' Is in Total Focus All the Way

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK Performing Arts of Woodstock — to put it as simply as possible — does a whole of a job with its current production of "I Am a Camera."

But, then, "Camera" has always been a perfectly marvelous play, whose essential luster can't be dulled by the normal aging process. It has endured many adaptations and many fathers.

Christopher Isherwood first wrote the plot as a novella, "Goodby to Berlin," several decades back. John van Druten adapted it in the 1951 Broadway hit, "I Am a Camera," with Julie Harris playing heroine Sally Bowles, a girl as wispy, wayward and vulnerable as the smoke at the end of her jaunty and over-sized cigarette holder. Miss Harris went on to star in the movie version. A new set of fathers surfaced to give it renewed life as the Broadway musical, "Cabaret," which drew rave reviews for actress Lotte Lenya and for Joel Gray, as a rouged master of ceremonies at the Kit Kat Club.

Became "Cabaret"

But "Camera" and the long line of foster parents it has accrued over the years wasn't finished yet. "Cabaret" became a big splashy musical movie, too, and the vehicle that was mainly responsible for earning the Liza Minelli (as the latest Sally Bowles) her "Entertainer of the Year" Award. The film has been nominated for 12 Academy Awards, two of them going to Miss Minelli and Joel Grey (repeating his stage characterization).

"Camera" will never grow dated with the years as so many plays do. It will always retain historic strength and dramatic impact since it is built on the oozing decadence of 1930 Berlin. In that respect, it is a mirror montage of the brutality of Nazism on the rise and the sadomasochism it fostered. And, if the decadence of Berlin is primary, there is a form of decadence, too, in its characters and setting.

Sally Bowles with her green fingernails and Bohemian way of life is naughty and immoral in her waywardness, but lovable in spite of all that. Christopher Isherwood, by often condoning her actions — and just as often aiding and abetting her — participates in her blackstocked naughtiness. The character of American tourist Clive Mortimer is slightly soiled, as well, in its limning of a bored, wealthy fun seeker. And the device of setting the chic-sloppy Sally in a sleazy boarding house helps to flesh out the insinuating tones of surface decadence.

As staged currently by Performing Arts of Woodstock, this production is faithful to the original. Isherwood's book became lost in transit in the hip-rolling dancers of "Cabaret." The "I" of Isherwood's Berlin camera was the author himself, intelligent, sentient, an amused and ironic observer of a society of convulsion. And PAW's Ron Radice plays Isherwood not as the wide-eyed boy tourist with a typewriter of "Cabaret," but as the youthful, intellectual and studious-in-mien writer intended in the Isherwood-Van Druten versions.

A Total Original

As Sally Bowles, PAW's Mary White is an authentic original, a feat that would have to be difficult for any amateur actress who could so easily emulate Harris or Minelli, or both, in the role. She is properly disoriented, sorrowful, and exuberant as called for in any particular scene. A mixture of waif and wanton, gin and generosity, Mary White IS Sally Bowles — both in technique and temperament. Among her many fine scenes: her admission to Isherwood that she is pregnant; her childish delight in the prospect of a trip around the world; her giddy exhilaration overtaken by depression when she decides to change her whole way of life for pleasure-bent pain to routinely-scheduled seriousness.

The PAW production profits, too, from an excellent performance of Julia Callahan as Fraulein Schneider, the cheerfully plump landlady of the piece who ultimately succumbs to Nazi propaganda. The attractive, real-life Callahan is nowhere evident onstage in the lumpy, aging, dowdy fraulein.

Very well padded to triple her weight and looking twice her age or more, she has a field day with her role; turns in a brilliant performance in scenes that call for her to range from coyly cut to blazingly angry to lightfooted and polkahappy.

Highly instrumental in focusing Isherwood's camera on the disorder around him are David Eckstein as his friend, Fritz Wendel, and Edith Lefever as his English student. Eckstein handles his lines perceptively, a vital necessity for the success of the play since it is his dialogue that often convinces the audience of the seductive corruption of pre-Hitler Germany. He is especially powerful in the scene in which he confesses his Jewishness.

Lefever is sublime as Natalia Landauer, as distraught but plucky young Jewish heiress who finds herself falling in love with Fritz, who at first seems nothing more than a non-Jew fortune hunter. She is very good in her first act entrance, and the banter in the scene between Lefever and Eckstein is the highlight of that act.

Succeed in Cameos

Highly successful in cameo roles are Jo McKim Chalmers as Sally's primly proper mother, Mrs. Watson-Courtneidge, and Bill Burgin as Clive Mortimer, and the suavely bored American tourist who puts down everything that does not carry with it the stench of money.

Credit the success of this production, too, to director Bill Skilling, who has mined the work of Van Druten and the abilities of his actors with a strong discipline. In Skilling's skilled hands, the play emerges as a matter of substance over surface — and his mark can also be found in the little things — such as the startling reality of a champagne cork popping noisily skyward . . . not coping out with wet whimper.

See it, all means, you should. And you can see it again the nights of March 9, 10, 11, 16, 17 and 18 at Woodstock Town Hall.

IF IT LOOKS LIKE LOVE, it isn't. Ron Radice as struggling young writer Christopher Isherwood is father confessor and best friend to Mary White as sometime entertainer Sally Bowles in the current Performing Arts of Woodstock production, "I AM A CAMERA." (Photo by Ricketson)

Ellenville Landfill Users ... Car Sticker Now Needed

By WADE BURKHART

Ellenville landfill users still will need a sticker on their cars to get in beginning April 15, following action taken Monday night by the Ellenville Board.

The landfill is now open by contract to residents of the surrounding Town of Wawarsing, but that is scheduled to change March 15. After that date, landfill use will be restricted to that of Ellenville residents, and they will be the only ones who can obtain stickers.

Monday night's board action authorized the printing of the stickers. Mayor Robert Dowling said it was planned to print about 2,000 stickers. According to the mayor, those who have more than one car may get a sticker for each car they own.

The procedure for obtaining the stickers, as outlined by Village Attorney Albert I. Lonstein, is that a village resident must come to the village clerk's office in person, with their car registration as proof of residence.

Mrs. Louise Kobriner pointed out that the procedure would not work for persons such as herself who had a business outside Ellenville and a car registered as part of the business. Dowling said each case would be dealt with individually, and he foresaw no major problems.

The Town of Wawarsing is now engaged in a search for another landfill site. The town's only landfill at present is in Kerhonkson, and it is felt to be too small and too isolated to adequately serve the whole township. The new restrictions on the use of the village landfill has added urgency to the town's search.

Action against unsafe buildings in Ellenville is continuing, according to Lonstein. The attorney said the list of buildings named in a Feb. 5 resolution by the board had all been examined by village officials and the property owners informed of their unsafe condition.

Lonstein said the owners had until April 1 to "rehabilitate, repair, or remove" the cited buildings. If the owners take no action by that date, another survey will be made, and the village will seek an order from Ulster County Supreme Court empowering the village to take down the buildings and add the cost of the demolition to the tax rolls, according to Lonstein.

A request was received from the Mt. Cathalia ski facility to things "looked good," for Ellenville getting the additional money.

Rochester Search Continues

TOWN OF ROCHESTER

Continuing to search for possible alternatives to a proposed new town landfill site on Airport Road which has been the object of considerable criticism by area residents, the Rochester Town Board visited two other tentative sites on Saturday.

One site includes approximately 25 acres, and is being offered at $2,000 an acre, according to Supervisor Franklin Kelder. The site, owned by Harry and Helen Osterhoudt, surrounds and would include the former Accord Speedway, Kelder said.

The second site consists of about 20 acres, Howard Ter-williger, the owner, is asking $1,500 an acre for the land, which can be reached along a 50-foot right-of-way from Whitfield Road.

The Airport Road site is being offered to the town at $2,500 an acre. It consists of 30 acres. Persons living or owning land near the site have been strongly opposed to the purchase.

Kelder has pointed out that no matter where a proposed site is found, there will probably be opposition from surrounding landowners. Nevertheless, the board is continuing to search for possible alternatives, Kelder said.

The growing inadequacy of the present town landfill site has necessitated a move to a new site.

Kelder said the County Department of Health, the County Planning Board, and the State Department of Environmental Conservation will be asked to look at the two Whitfield Road sites.

The Airport Road site has gained the approval of the three departments, pending further detailed tests at the site.

The fact that the Airport Road site is owned by the town zoning inspector, Leslie Osterhoudt, has resulted in additional criticism and implications of an "unethical deal," Kelder and other board members have denied the implications.

Clark Air Base in the Philippines. Although he has spent nearly three years as a prisoner of war in Indochina, CWO Roger A. Miller of the Dutchess County village of Millerton says he wants to re-enlist in the Army.

Miller, one of four POWs with upstate New York ties released Monday, related his desire in a telephone conversation with his former wife and daughter from month after arriving in the war zone in 1970, had been listed as missing in action. The fact that he was alive was not confirmed until last month when lists of POWs were issued by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

"He says he was down to 135 pounds, but now he's back to 185 and wants to re-enlist," his mother said. "He says he's in A-1 shape."

NEW CITY, N.Y. (UPI)—Joseph Larkin, accused of negligent homicide as the driver of a school bus which collided with a freight train last year and caused the death of five students, took the stand in his own defense Monday. He denied that he ignored safety procedures just before the accident.

The case is expected to go to the jury today.

Larkin, 36, testified in Rockland County Court that he did not drive through a stop sign at the crossing, as other witnesses have charged. He said he did not hear the warning whistle of the oncoming Penn Central freight train until it was too late to stop.

Man Charged With Arson

TOWN OF RHINEBECK

A 27-year-old Connecticut man was arrested on arson and other charges Monday evening at the scene of a raging fire which destroyed a 150 by 60 foot barn on Cozine Avenue in the Town of Rhinebeck.

Taken into custody at the scene was William J. Donahue of Walcott, Conn. He was charged by Rhinebeck State Police with arson in the fourth degree, criminal possession of dangerous drugs in the sixth degree, and public intoxication.

John McGuire Jr., Hillside Fire Chief, said the building was "fully and totally involved" when firefighters arrived at the scene shortly after 5 p.m.

McGuire said that when he arrived at the scene, Donahue was "running around" and yelling that his friends were in the burning building. According to McGuire, Donahue attempted to get firemen to go into the burning structure to save the people he claimed were in there. "If there were a hundred people in there we couldn't have done anything," the fire chief said, explaining that the roof of the building had already fallen in.

State police said it was determined that there was no one in the barn.

State Police took Donahue into custody at the scene. At the time of his arrest he allegedly had a quantity of marijuana on his person, police said.

Arraigned before Town of Rhinebeck Justice William Pollard, Donahue was confined in Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail to await re-appearance at a later date.

Firefighters from the Hillside and Rhinebeck departments remained at the scene for six hours. The barn was used for storage of hay and tools, according to the owner, Robert Anderson. It was totally destroyed, McGuire said. No injuries to firefighters were reported.

Hurricanes Doria, Agnes... Ulster Damage Claims Status

KINGSTON concerned "had a lot to learn about being declared a disaster area and the paper work involved when such a declaration is made."

Regarding Hurricane Agnes in 1972, Arnold reported that the City of Kingston estimated its cost of repair at $38,212 and the County Highway Department, $20,992. The Village of Ellenville has requested $12,568, Esopus, $42,240; Marbletown, $6,813; Rosendale, $21,278; Shandaken, $8,498; Town of Ulster, $8,340 and Wawarsing, $244,937. All requests for funds for damage resulting from Agnes are reportedly not ready for audit with the exception of the Town of Ulster which is ready for an audit.

Arnold said that the State Natural Disaster and Civil Defense personnel were most helpful. Fortunately, he said, neither hurricane caused any injuries or death but Agnes, which arrived June 21, 1972, "was the most devastating catastrophe this county has ever experienced." The Civil Defense director of natural disaster is the coordinating officer in Ulster County and all reports, letters and damage surveys go through his office.

Arnold said it is hoped that all paper work will be submitted, audited and approved for payment within the next three months. Reimbursements for funds spent to repair damage due to Hurricane Agnes will take longer.

Drainage in Spotlight

By CARL GRAHAM

SAUGERTIES

Road drainage in the Gurth Lane-Willow Lane area off Main Street got the major share of attention at Monday night's meeting of the Saugerties Village Board.

Robert Carpenter, a contractor who has built several homes in the area, asked the board to do something about water collection on Gurth Lane and freezing. He said up to six inches of water collects on the road during storms and remains there as long as 48 hours, creating a hazard for children in the area and damaging the roadway when it freezes and thaws.

Mayor Cornelius Cox said the village was aware of the problem but that there were several other areas with more serious problems. He cited Market Street as an example, saying that heavy rains backed up water from manholes and at times dumped raw sewage into the street.

Cox suggested extending catch basins from nearby streets into the Gurth Lane area to drain it. He noted that state regulations prohibited the village from putting sanitary water into the village sanitary sewer system.

Trustee Maurice Clements, the public works commissioner, said he would visit the area as soon as possible with William Voerg, the DPW superintendent, to see what can be done and that he would report at the next board meeting March 19.

Trustee Walter Keefe, the police commissioner, relayed a request from Police Chief Gordon Keeley to ban parking on one side of West Bridge Street. Keefe said heavy parking there was interfering with the flow of traffic onto the bridge across Esopus Creek, now restricted to one-way traffic while the bridge is being resurfaced.

Keefe said he would check the area with Keeley and that he thought it would be a good idea to ban parking on one side of West Bridge Street about 1,500 feet uphill from the Partition Street intersection.

Mayor Cox and trustees were invited to attend the annual Chief's Night of the Saugerties Fire Department which will be held at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, March 27 at the Flamingo Restaurant on Route 9W.

AAUW Legislative Day Is Held

Several members of the Kingston and New Paltz Branches of the American Association of University Women were among the several hundred AAUW members, New York State Division, who attended the annual legislative day in Albany on February 26.

Representing Kingston AAUW were Mrs. Paul Johnson, president; Mrs. Russell Robbins, Mrs. James Babb, Mrs. Kirkland Snyder, and Mrs. Donald Meagher. New Paltz members included Mrs. Louis Smith, Mrs. John Haluska, and Mrs. Ricahrd O'Conner.

Representing 71 branches in the state, the women participated in a day long program which began at Chancellors Hall at 10 a.m. with a panel session, and included an afternoon visit to the State Legislature and legislators, according to Mrs. Bruce Dearing of Guiderland, State President, who presided over the session.

A keynote address by the Honorable Hamilton Fish, Jr., member of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Penal Reform, opened legislative day and a panel discussion followed with Russell G. Oswald, Commissioner, NYS Dept. of Correctional Services; Milton Lugern, Director of NYS Division for Youth; Dr. Anthony Esposito, NYS Legislative Commission on Expenditure Review; and the Honorable Thomas Brown, NYS Assemblyman, Subcommittee on Penal Reform. Mrs. Frederick Dugan of Penn Yan, N.Y. moderated the panel.

Legislative day this year highlighted AAUW's state division project, adopted in their Convention last May — Prison Rehabilitation and Education Program, known as PREP. The project envisioned three phases: information gathering, community action, and concerted action at State level.

Since fall under Phase I, the 9,000 member organization has studied and visited correctional facilities in their communities and under Phase

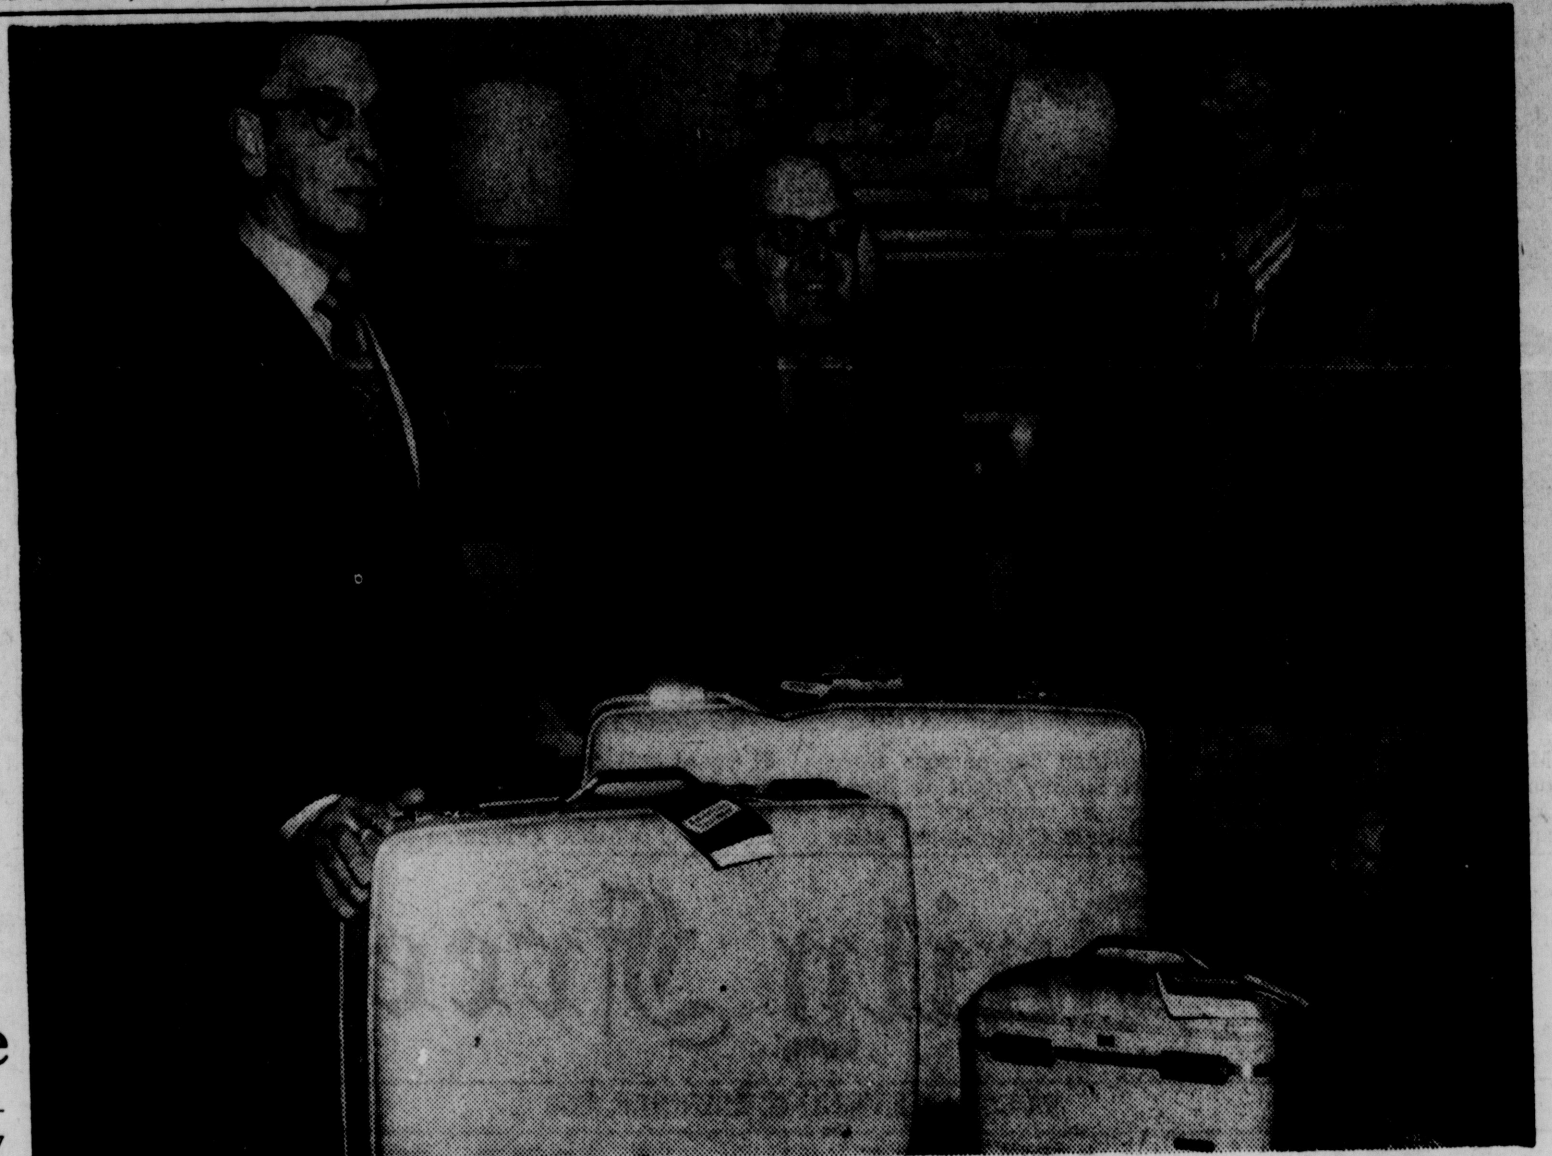

II has implemented the state establishing or developing library materials in local correctional facilities, administering high school equivalencies, setting up recreation programs, tutoring, arranging programs for women in correctional facilities, helping delinquent or neglected children, and counseling and testing in various facilities. The Kingston Branch of AAUW has an active PREP committee headed by Mrs. Clifton Hyman.

Democratic Division To Hear Joseph Crangle

Democratic State Chairman Joseph F. Crangle will deliver the keynote address at the opening of the 22nd Annual Political Conference of the State Committee's Women's Division on April 8th. Announcement was made by Mae Gurevich, vice-chairman of the State Committee and National Committeewoman. The conference, which has as its theme "Government — Its Changing Role in New York State," will be held at the Hyatt House, Albany, on April 8th and 9th.

Approximately 600 women from the 62 counties of the state are expected to attend. Mrs. Ann McCann, chairman of the Herkimer County Democratic Committee, will serve as conference chairman.

1973 FREEMAN FASHION PREMIERE on Tuesday, April 3 in the Community Theatre will be highlighted with the presentation of this set of American Tourister luggage valued at more than $160. The award is a gift from the Uptown Businessmen's Association and will be presented the night of the show by Stanley London of London's of Kingston and promotion chairman for the Association. Arrangements were completed by (L-R) Cliff Bunting of Kingston Luggage; Glen Stampfle, president of Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association and manager of J. C. Penny and Company; and Mr. London. The luggage may be seen in the window of Kingston Luggage on Wall Street. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

The Klokken Ringers were formed about two years ago as an integral part of the extensive music program of the New Hackensack Church. They rehearse regularly, once a week, and provide solo or accompanimental music for the special festival services of the church, as well as solo performances at various times throughout the year.

The Ringers have made several concert appearances recently in the area, in Poughkeepsie, Rhinebeck and Kinderhook. They are associated, as a bell choir unit, with the "American Guild of English Handbell Ringers," the largest Guild of its kind in the United States. The program consists of several selections, written specifically for handbells. Commentaries will be given explaining the origin of bells, the uses of bells throughout history, the introduction and spread of handbells in England and in the United States, the contemporary uses of handbells, and other interesting facts about bell ringing.

The group is directed by Loton E. Springstead, director of music, New Hackensack Reformed Church, assisted by Mrs. William Garce, associate director. A 37-note set of precision-tuned handbells, made by Schulmerich Carillons, of Sellersville, Pa., will be used. Refreshments will be served.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Since your mention of WAIF (an agency for adopting a child from Viet Nam) a few days ago, this office has been inundated with requests for information and applications — particularly — from unmarrieds.

We do not generally handle single-parent adoptions, and presently have a long waiting list of approved couples who get preference.

The sheer physical work of answering these thousands of inquiries is overwhelming since we are a nonprofit organization operating on public funds. So thanks to the tremendous response from Dear Abby readers, we have a serious problem. We are understaffed, underfinanced, and swamped. Please, help!

MAUREEN O'BRIEN WAIF, PUBLIC INFORMATION

DEAR MAUREEN: What a great opportunity to inform those in the New York area that you could use some temporary volunteer office help (Phone: 687-2747) as well as contributions in any amount. And hopefully those who seek information about adoptions will enclose at least the postage for a reply.

DEAR ABBY: I did a terrible thing, and now I can't sleep nights. I am not a thief, but for the first time in my life I stole something from a store.

I am in my eighth month of pregnancy and went to the store to buy some diapers. That took all the money I had, but I happened to see a beautiful pink baby sweater lying right out where I could pick it up, so when the clerk turned her back to me, I picked up the sweater and put it in my coat pocket.

I was sorry the minute after I did it, but the clerk turned around and I couldn't put it back, so I walked out with it. Abby, I shook like a leaf all the way home.

That night I dreamed my baby was born without hands. Now I am afraid God will punish me for stealing by giving me an imperfect baby. I'm afraid if I return the sweater they will put me in jail. I love the Lord and have always tried to live by His commandments. Please help me, Abby.

PRAYING HARD

DEAR PRAYING: Return the sweater to the clerk and tell her what you told me. First offenders who return stolen merchandise are dealt with generously.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are well able to help our married children out financially. We have three, but there is one daughter who needs it much more than the others. She and her husband have five children, ranging in ages from 13 to 5. He earns a very modest living and isn't able to pay all his bills and feed and clothe those children the way he should. I know this has my daughter worried and upset, but my husband refuses to give them any financial help because this daughter's husband gives 10 per cent of all his earnings to the church.

Is my husband right or not? It's the only thing we ever argue about. I'd like your opinion.

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Surely your husband can't fault a man for honoring a commitment to his church! If your husband can't see it your way, dig into the sugar bowl and help your daughter as much as you can, personally.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700 L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: My parents bought a home and I had gone over to help them paint. When I got there, I found I forgot an old blouse. There was a roll of trash can bags, so I took one of the bags, made a hole for my head and arms and put it on over my blouse.

The idea worked great! No paint splatters on my clothing and throwaway top. Mrs. Dianne Rowerstein

Rather than pour hot water on the lead-in pipe or hose, and risk more trouble, I got the idea of directing my hand hair dryer on the outside connection.

We had water — and no cracked metal or ruined hose. Mrs. Howard Black

Ulster vs. Newbury Wednesday in Troy

By IRA FUSFELD KINGSTON
Newbury, Mass. Junior College of Region III, the 15th ranked team in the nation, will face Region XV champion Ulster County Community College, No. 18, Wednesday night at 8 p.m. at the 87th Engineers' Armory in Troy, with the winner earning a trip to Hutchinson, Kansas, and the National Junior College Athletic Association basketball tournament.

The match-up was determined at Hudson Valley Community College Monday night when Brad Winbush of Newbury sank a 28-foot shot at the buzzer to lift the Boston-based club to a sizzling 69-68 victory over Broome Tech of Binghamton in the Region III final.

Newbury had won the Region's Eastern title Saturday while Broome was taking the Western crown. Ulster was beating Farmingdale on the same evening for its second consecutive Region XV championship.

The inter-regional was necessitated by the NJCAA's three-year rotation plan which eliminates three of the 19 regional champs for the 16-team tournament in Hutchinson. Last year, Region XV champ Ulster and Region III title holder Erie Tech automatically qualified for the Kansas trip.

Ulster coach Mike Perry, who attended the Newbury-Broome game not only to scout the survivor but also to help select the neutral site for the inter-regional, was duly impressed by the team his 30-4 Senators will face.

"They're super quick," Perry said. "I haven't seen a club that quick this season. They press either man to man or zone the entire game. . . they never let up. The come at you all the time."

Perry noted that Newbury has one man at six-foot-six, and the rest in the 6-1, 6-2 range. Just how impressed he was with the team can be interpreted in this post-game remark: "We were rooting for Broome Tech."

Ulster had beaten Broome Tech, 80-75, in Binghamton earlier this season. Perry said that the Broome team in action Monday was not the same club the Senators saw, if only because the Hornets' Larry Lopacz, injured for much of the UCCC contest, played all of the Newbury game.

Murcer Passes Joe D., Mickey

By United Press International
Bobby Murcer already has surpassed Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle, his center field predecessors with the New York Yankees—in one category anyway.

Murcer Monday became the youngest Yankee ever to sign a $100,000 contract when he agreed to terms for the 1973 American League season.

Murcer, at 26, easily outdistanced the former Yankee greats to the $100,000 plateau. DiMaggio was 35 when he reached the figure and Mantle was 31.

Last season, Murcer, like Mantle a native of Oklahoma, hit .292 with 33 homers, 96 runs batted in and a league high 102 runs scored. He was named to the AL All-Star team.

The Yankees also signed pitcher Steve Kline, 16-9 last season, to a contract estimated at $40,000, leaving four players—Sparky Lyle, Fritz Peterson, Roy White and Gene Michael—unsigned.

Rusty Staub of the New York Mets also signed a blockbuster contract Monday, agreeing to a three-year pact worth $330,000. Staub, who met with Mets' General Manager Bob Scheffing for five days, was leading the Mets in hitting when he pitched his second career no-hitter last season, leaving only Mike Marshall and Jim Fairley unsigned.

NL Cy Young winner Steve Carlton returned to training with the Philadelphia Phils after a three-day absence. Carlton suffered a seizure of acute bronchitis. . . John Mayberry became the first Kansas City Royal ever to sign a two-year contract when the 23-year-old first baseman agreed to terms. . . Johnny Briggs and Ellie Rodriguez signed with the Milwaukee Brewers, leaving only Brock Davis unsigned and Horacio Pina and Manny Trillo joined Oakland A's workouts.

Gussie Can't Fight City Hall

By MILTON RICHMAN ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Gussie Busch tried. More than anybody else in baseball, he tried. It didn't do him any good. With all his millions, he still found out you can't fight City Hall.

A year ago, Gussie Busch had his back up. He was the most militant owner in all baseball, and he got so angry at one point he talked of unloading the St. Louis Cardinals.

When his ace left-hander, Steve Carlton, gave him trouble over money, he shipped him forthwith to Philadelphia. A few weeks later, when the ballplayers went out on strike, he said they could stay out until hell froze over.

The Cardinals finished fourth last season and Gussie Busch knew they were anything but a contented crew. So he decided to change things. Now everybody's happy and if you're attempting to figure out what exactly is responsible for all this, try money. Nobody's salary was cut by the Cardinals this year. They were the first club to sign all their players. All of them feel good now, and it shows.

"By gum, I think we have a great attitude this year," said Gussie Busch, sitting on a bench behind first base Monday and watching his ballclub in its first intrasquad game of the spring.

"I want a pennant and a World Series winner once more in my lifetime," said the 73-year-old Busch, "and we're gonna do everything to achieve that. I want the fightingest team there is. Like the old Gasbush Gang. We're gonna go after it heart and soul."

What this all boils down to is that Busch tried it his way last year and found that didn't work. He didn't like it and he had his say. Now he's trying it the other way.

"My biggest disappointment was the strike last year," Busch said, following the progress of the ballgame which he found rather amusing since a machine "pitched" for both sides.

Clemente's Widow Suing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vera Roberto Clemente, is asking for $5 million in damages from the late Pittsburgh Pirates' star which her husband was killed and the manufacturer of the plane's engines.

Mrs. Clemente filed suit on behalf of herself and her three children in Manhattan Federal Court Monday against the McDonnell-Douglas Corp. of St. Louis Mo., manufacturers of the plane, and Curtiss-Wright Corp. of New Jersey, the makers of the engine.

The 38-year-old Clemente was killed on New Year's Eve when the private plane he was in crashed into the Atlantic Ocean shortly after takeoff from San Juan Airport. The plane was attempting to return to San Juan to make an emergency landing when it went down.

Clemente was returning from a relief mission to victims of the Nicaraguan earthquake. His body was never recovered.

The suit alleges that Curtiss-Wright was negligent in the design, manufacture, servicing and inspection of its TC-18 engine. Douglas aircraft was accused of wrongfully representing that the airplane and all of its parts were free of defects.

Stuart Speiser, lawyer for Mrs. Clemente, said that the two inboard engines of the turbo-prop plane were recovered from the ocean floor and found to be defective.

A wrongful death claim was also filed against the Federal Aviation Administration which, if rejected, could make the agency a defendant in the case in six months.

Stars Win Without Wise

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)— "That has to be one of our great team efforts of the season" is the way LaDell Andersen, coach of the Utah Stars, described his club's 117-110 Basketball Association victory over Virginia Monday.

"We played as well as we possibly can without Willie Wise in the line-up," Andersen said.

Wise, a 6-6 veteran forward and the team's leading scorer, sat out the game with a hand injury suffered in a game last week.

The game was the only one on the schedule for both the ABA and the National Basketball Association Monday.

Behind the shooting of Julius Erving, the Squires started out as if they could do no wrong and promptly ran up a 15-point lead at the end of the first quarter, 37-22.

Bobby Warren, Ron Boone and John Beasley led the Stars as they closed the gap to nine at the half, 64-55, but not before Erving had scored 26 points.

In the third quarter, Andersen sent Rod McDonald into the game to guard Erving.

His defensive work was effective as he held Erving to three field goals in the second half.

Raiders Tie Cougars, 44

NEW YORK (AP) — About the only thing even about the World Hockey Association game between the New York Raiders and Chicago Cougars Monday night was the final score—4-4.

It was the only WHA game played. There were no games scheduled in the National Hockey League.

"We completely dominated the game," said Cougar Coach Marcel Pronovost. "There's no way we shouldn't have won."

The shots on goal would seem to indicate that. The Cougars outshot New York 54-38 but Raider goals by Wayne Rivers and Bob Jones in the final minute of the third period tied the game.

The Cougars had built a 4-0 lead on goals by Jan Pohl in the first period and Rosaire Palement, Dick Sarrazin and Jim Benzelock in the second.

Then, in the final 42 seconds of the second period, the Raiders struck for goals by Ron Ward and Rivers to cut the lead in half. It stayed that way until the final moments of the third period. Then the teams battled through a scoreless overtime.

"We really played only two minutes out of 70," said New York Coach Camille Henry. "The shots on goal show that. I can't really smile although one point is better than none. We're still in a tough position."

The tie moved the Raiders back into a third place dead-lock with Philadelphia in the WHA East. Both teams have 60 points, one more than fifth place Quebec and two more than sixth place Ottawa. New York and Ottawa both have played 67 games, three more than Quebec and Philadelphia. Chicago is last in the West.

JDL Hits Ethnic Quotas At Yankee, Shea Sit-Ins

NEW YORK (AP) — The spoofing sit-ins marked a change of style for the Jewish Defense League, which is usually solemn and militant. But the issue at stake wasn't flippant.

JDL members staged the brief demonstrations Monday at offices of the Yankees and Mets, the two major league baseball teams here, demanding ethnic quotas for Jewish ballplayers.

A spokesman, however, said the sit-ins were actually aimed at showing up what the JDL considers arbitrary government-dictated ethnic quotas in educational institutions.

NBA Minimum Wage Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Players Association of the National Basketball Association Monday reached agreement on a three-year contract with the league's Board of Governors, providing for a $20,000 a year minimum salary and amended pension benefits.

The minimum salary requirement, which will take effect next year, is the highest in professional sports.

Under terms of the amended pension plan, full retirement benefits, amounting to $750 a year for each year of service, are now payable beginning at age 50.

The new contract also establishes a minimum of 11 players on each club's active list and states that each player waived before Dec. 1 must be paid for a whole season. Formal approval was also finalized on arbitration procedures and the play-off pool.

Diamond and Yapple
Early Pin Leaders

KINGSTON — Kathy Diamond wrote her own story in the opening round of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association championship tournament at Ferraro's Bowlerama over the weekend.

Mrs. Diamond, a member of the KWBA Board of Directors and publicity and promotional chairman for this year's event, took the early lead in the Class A doubles with Barbara Finch and her 558 series paced Artie's Minnie Car Wash to the early Class A team lead with 2062. She put together games of 181, 177 and 200 in the team event, then contributed 538 to the 1051 A doubles with Barbara Finch, who added 513.

Kay Yapple also excelled in the first weekend by taking over the Class A singles lead with 489 and the A all-events on 1623. Artie's rolled team games of 716, 660 and 686 for the four-member squad. Eva Blice added 486, Gwen Charest 509 and Finch 509. Lucille Steen fired 200-537 and Terry Becker 214-528, as the KWBA's moved into second place with 2056.

Carol Teelon's 506 paced Sperling Real Estate to the Class B lead with 1897. New Paltz Lumber was second at 1845. Eileen Spader had 503, as Bankers Trust rolled 1672 to take the Class A lead. Amigas hit 1596 for second.

Joan Smith (469) and Betty Shelighner (577) took second in A doubles with 1046. Jo Primo (530) and Theresa Palladino (489) lead Class B with 1019. Betty Phillips (475) and Lil Kennedy (466) are runnersup with 941.

Ester Ott and Rose Williams lead in C doubles with 811.

Kay Yapple slammed a hefty 589 off 171, 208, 210 to lead Class A singles. Three pins behind was Gloria Allen with 586. Janet Crosswell leads Class A singles with 535, with Ruth Cahill runnerup at 531. The C leader is Joan Lyle with 485. Joyce Wood was 475.

Kay Yapple also took over the Class A all-events with her fine 1623 off 502 in the team event, 532 doubles and 589 singles. Carol Harder of Woodstock leads Class B with 1364 and Joyce Wood in Class C with 1374.

NIT Picks

By JACK SAUNDERS
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — This year's 36th National Invitation Tournament should perhaps be called the New York Invitation Tournament.

The NIT Selection Committee added 10 more teams to the 16-team field Monday, and the local influence was hard to miss. Fairfield, 16-8, Manhattan, 16-9, and Rutgers, 15-10, were chosen for the March 17-25 tournament, and, added to previously-tapped Notre Dame, 15-11, gave the NIT four teams that would not likely see post-season action if the tournament were not held in New York.

Other selections Monday included 18th-ranked New Mexico (21-5), Oral Roberts (21-5), Marshall (20-6), Louisville (22-6), Southern California (18-8), Massachusetts (19-6) and Missouri (20-4).

Virginia Tech and American University were invited last week.

UCLA coach John Wooden disparaged the NIT from another angle Monday. "My contention is that when the season's over, the season's over," Wooden said. The Bruin mentor explained that he didn't feel tournaments such as the NIT are a fair test of a team's ability, whereas the NCAA playoffs are a natural progression of excellence during the season.

Monday's picks leave only three berths left to fill, with Jim Cammons leads "B" scorers with 145 points and Brian LaTorre is runnerup with 137. The rebound leader is Don Hopper with 130 and teammate, Steve Hannay, runnerup at 122. Mike Kiernan's .750 percentage leads the free throw converters.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, March 7

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are not feeling up to par and may want to ignore good friends, which is a wrong thing to do at this time. Group affairs are fine but do little talking for best results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle vocational matters in a most efficient way. Don't irritate a higher-up. Make sure you pay an important bill you've been putting off. Don't take chances with your credit.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You think you have some fine ideas but it's best you study them further before you put them in operation. Take no risks with money. A plan of a newcomer is not for you, so turn it down.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Further analysis of your obligations makes it possible for you to discharge them with efficiency. Find a better way of pleasing mate. Avoid arguments and add to present harmony.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you don't impose on associates, you can come to a far better understanding, and be more cooperative than in the past. One who opposes you is in an irate mood, so avoid this person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan your time wisely so that you can handle those important duties ahead with efficiency. Use a new method to improve your health. Do something of a philanthropic nature tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Taking time off for fun is fine, but don't be extravagant in any way. Plan to use your talents more so that you get better results. Think along constructive lines. Relax tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't cause friction at home by bringing up old arguments. Strive for more harmony instead. Try to eliminate the cause of any trouble and gain the respect of all. Keep calm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) This is not the right day to do whatever you feel will be helpful to associates so wait for a better time. Don't take any chances in travel or in dealing with those in trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Instead of getting deeper in debt, be sure to pay whatever bills you have. Obtain the advice of experts for your problematical affairs. A small investment could be successful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who will want to jump into almost anything without proper preparation. Teach to plan and to be patient, although it may be a difficult lesson to learn. Give as fine an education as you can afford. Also, teach the importance of the value of the dollar. Spiritual training is a must. Fame is possible here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

TEEN FORUM

NOT TRUSTED: (Q.) My parents think I am a liar. They don't trust me. This hurts me very much.

If I do lie, it is only about little things, like saying I didn't talk to a boy when I really did. You see, they don't like the boy.

Their trust means a lot and I need it back so bad. Please help me.—Hurting in Alabama.

(A.) One of the problems about "little" lies is that they are not always little. When you tell your parents, for instance, that you did not talk to this boy, you are really giving them the false impression that you have marked him off your list.

And that, from their viewpoint, is a pretty big lie.

Don't tell them any more lies, little or big, about the boy from now on. Instead, talk to them about him. Tell them about his good points. Listen to their complaints about him. Ask them to let you invite him to dinner, so they can see how he honestly is.

STEPS: (Q.) I like this guy. He talks to me, but that is all. Could you tell me how a boy acts when he likes a girl? Hopeful in Wisconsin.

(A.) Talking briefly before or after school or at lunch or between classes is one of the first steps a boy takes in getting to know a girl he is interested in.

In later stages the talks get longer and he usually asks her for her phone number and calls her at home. He also may walk home with her, if that is possible.

This boy you like may be shy and not sure exactly what to do next. When he talks to you, be warm and friendly, but don't overdo it. Overdoing it can scare a boy away.

Feature Film Study in Limbo

NEW YORK (AP) — The under close study last year by the possibility of Hollywood studios the Public Broadcasting Service making feature films specific-ice, PBS officials say. However, both the idea and the still-unfinished study cur-age of product abroad and we way of producing this kind of quality show here at minimal cost," he said.

This, the officials say, is because of uncertainty over what role PBS will have in the future of national programming for public television.

He said several major Hollywood studios — he didn't know which ones I were contacted during the study to determine if they were willing to produce low-cost feature films for public TV.

What kinds of films were discussed? "I don't think they (PBS officials) ever really got into that," he said, adding that major producers expressed "a considerable amount of interest."

Top public television officials eventually will have to consider that Hollywood as a source of films for national public television, the PBS spokesman contended.

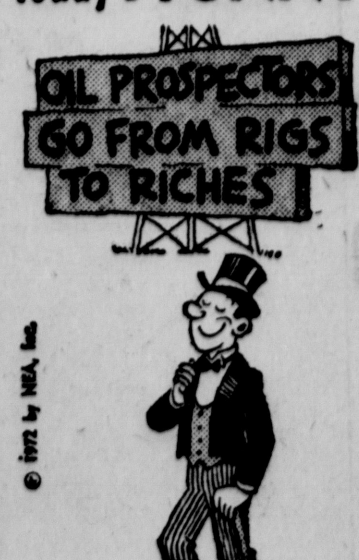

"We just do not have sufficient programs for national public television," he said. "If we were made under co-production product, that's very doubtful. I don't think they're ever going to do it."

What was happening is that think they're ever going to do it."

Indian Settlement...Guarded Optimism

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI) — Justice Department officials said today things are going, "click, click, click" toward a settlement of the week-long Indian occupation of Wounded Knee.

But other government sources were guarded in their hope for a speedy surrender of the embattled encampment of the 250 Indians who last Tuesday occupied the site of the last stand of American Indians against the U.S. Cavalry and released eleven hostages two days later.

"We had at least five telescopic sights of Indians at Wounded Knee carrying M60 rifles," a government man said. "They can wipe out a bunch of FBI men or U.S. Marshals outside Wounded Knee without giving them a chance."

Despite these misgivings, there is consensus among government officials here that the issues now remaining chiefly concerned tribal politics and resentment against the operations of the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) here on the Pine Ridge Oglala Sioux Reservation.

Justice Department officials indicated, with evident relief, that the Interior Department, which governs the BIA, is now bearing the brunt of the negotiations. The talks were to resume at 10 a.m. MST today in a tepee of white canvas located midway between the Indian and federal road blocks on Bigfoot Trail leading into Wounded Knee.

There were many reasons for the feeling today that an end might come soon for the occupation of the 1890 massacre site by the Indians, captained by leaders of the militant American Indian Movement (AIM).

—Reporters who had been barred from passing the federal roadblocks were admitted en masse to Wounded Knee Monday afternoon.

—The FBI men and marshals who had barred reporters, sometimes at rifle point, now joked with them saying "we've been here a month. This is just too much."

—The federal officials who had released almost no information for a week were genial and open Monday.

Inside Wounded Knee, AIM leaders insisted they were willing to stand and die in the settlement but when one of those taking part in the negotiations was asked whether things were going "click, click, click," he smiled and said "yes."

AIM leaders Monday suggested that, possibly presidential advisor Henry Kissinger, be sent here to confer with them. They also passed up a government offer that would allow them to leave Wounded Knee without being arrested.

The Indians have demanded senate hearings into treaties between the United States and Indians and a senate investigation of all Sioux reservations in South Dakota.

Almost Another Air Tragedy

PARIS (AP) — France nearly had a second airliner collision Monday, the Swedish news agency reported today as a number of airlines boycotted French skies because two Spanish jetliners collided during a strike by civilian air controllers.

The report from Stockholm said SAS pilot Rolf Bandell reported a big plane suddenly crossed his course at the same altitude Monday near Abbeville, in northern France. The report said Bandell was flying a Boeing 720 jet with 178 persons aboard, bound for the Canary Islands.

The military air controllers replacing the strikers at French airports had not informed him of any other plane in the vicinity, Bandell said. When he reported the near-collision, he said he was on the charter plane also were answered: "Understood, under-British stood."

The two Spanish airliners collided about 260 miles southwest of Abbeville, near the coast between Nantes. One of the planes, the Spantax was ahead of an Iberia Airlines DC9, broke schedule despite instructions up in the air and all 68 persons from the ground to slow down. ## 80 American POWs Fly Home Wednesday

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Eighty American prisoners of war will fly to the United States Wednesday for reunions with their families at four separate military bases around the country, military spokesmen announced today.

The men, who returned from Communist prison camps Sunday and Monday, will fly in 20-man groups aboard four C141 Starlifter hospital planes at two hour intervals.

Spokesman said the first plane will leave at 8 a.m.

Wednesday (7 p.m. EST Tuesday) for Andrews Air Base, Washington and arrive at 5:15 p.m. EST time Wednesday.

The arrival times and destinations of the other planes were 5:10 p.m. EST at Scott AFB, Ill.; 6:30 p.m. EST at Kelly AFB, Tex., and 5:30 p.m. EST at Travis AFB, Calif.

The names of those aboard the planes will be announced later, a spokesman said.

All of the early returnees were expected to be from the group of 106 military flyers who returned Sunday from Hanoi in what base doctors described as "very, very good condition."

The 30 Americans who returned Monday from Viet Cong camps were still going through the routine processing. Their release brought to 299, the number of U.S. POWs freed since the cease-fire—more than half of those known to be held by the Communists. All must be released by the end of the month.

Some Fighting, Some Progress

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam and Cambodia reported more intensive fighting Monday while some progress was reported in post-truce talks in Laos.

The Saigon command, citing updated reports received from the field, reported a substantial increase in casualties from post-truce fighting. Command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said that since the Jan. 28 cease-fire, Communists have committed 5,797 truce violations and have lost 12,192 men killed and 195 captured.

In Phnom Penh, officials reported fierce fighting along the southern Highway 2 as Communist troops attacked two major government outposts only 23 miles south of Phnom Penh. Military spokesmen claimed 106 Communists were killed with two government soldiers dead and military sources attributed the heavy Communist casualties to saturation raids by U.S. warplanes.

In Honolulu, a statement issued from U.S. Pacific Forces headquarters said U.S. planes flew strikes at the request of the Phnom Penh government but did not say where the operations took place.

The military sources in Phnom Penh, however, said the raids were flown against Communist troops who attacked the towns of Samrong Yong and Bantea Trav at dusk Sunday. The fighting continued for nearly 24 hours.

In Vientiane, government and Communist Pathet Lao representatives to the Joint Military Commission and a committee on a coalition government met for 2½ hours Monday. Government spokesmen said there was no substantive agreement, although some points were ironed out.
